Bungendore Remembers the 75th Anniversary of the Korean War

This year's Remembrance Day service in Bungendore featured the 75th Anniversary of the Korean War.

Master of Ceremonies, Nick Beeson lead the moving service.

In his Address, Commander Joint Operations, Vice Admiral Justin Jones AO CSC RAN reflected of what it means to remember and the importance of Remembrance Day.

The Bungendore War Memorial Committee invited 95-year-old Frank Shugg, of Mount Fairy to be their general guest at this Remembrance Day Service commemorating the Korean war.

"We understand that Frank Shugg is the only Korean war veteran who now lives in the bungendore district.

At the age of 19, Frank joined the Royal Australian navy in 1949 as a writer 37196.

In 1952 he was posted to HAMS Murchison which conducted a series of post armistice patrols off the Korean coast until July 1954. As a veteran he was awarded the Australian Active Service Medal 1945-75 with clasp Korea, the United Nations Medal for Korea and the Republic of Korea War Service Medal.

In 1966 frank was promoted as a Supply Sub Lieutenant and rose to become a Lieutenant Commander in 1977 before he retired in 1986 having completed 37 years' service - some achievement.

Even before he retired Frank was actively involved with the St. Vincent De Paul Society, serving as president of the Canberra - Goulburn district and afterwards as Vice President of the NSW "Vinnies" council.

Over recent years frank has often recited the prayer for Australia at bungendore Remembrance Day services.

Frank - thank you for your service to the nation and the community."

Your Chance to Win While Shopping Local in Bungendore & Braidwood

There is something wonderfully distinct about Christmas in our region. As the weather warms and the village fills with festive energy, our local shops, cafes, makers and markets form the heart of the season. It's a time when familiar faces cross paths, when weekend browsing becomes a social outing, and when our small businesses shine brightest. This year, the return of the Bungendore and Braidwood Shop & Win adds even more excitement to the lead-up to Christmas.

Running from 17 November to 14 December 2025, Shop & Win gives residents and visitors the chance to support local businesses in Bungendore and Braidwood while entering the draw for a share of $20,000 in prizes, awarded as vouchers to spend back in local businesses. Each town has $10,000 on offer, including weekly $500 vouchers and major voucher prizes of $1000, $2000, and $5000. Every time you spend $20 or more at a participating business, you'll receive a unique code for your chance to win.

But the campaign is about much more than prizes. It celebrates the people and places that make our small towns special. It's about supporting local businesses, which proudly showcase their thoughtful products and services. Shopping local at Christmas has a powerful ripple effect. When you choose to buy a gift, meal or service in Bungendore or Braidwood, you're directly supporting families, livelihoods and local jobs. Those purchases help to keep our businesses strong through the busiest time of the year, ensuring they continue to be part of the community we value so much. The voucher-based prize pool builds on this idea, ensuring that every dollar from the winnings flows back into the region's economy and directly benefits the businesses that make the town unique.

Our region has long been known for its creative energy, and the shop and win campaign encourages everyone to dig a little deeper and rediscover what makes our towns unique. From artisan goods and boutique homewares to books, fashion, local produce and handmade Christmas gifts, they offer something truly special. These are the kinds of finds you simply can't pick up in a large shopping centre - items with personality, story and heart behind them.

The festive season always brings a sense of connection. You'll see locals stopping for a chat outside their favourite shops, families picking up supplies for gatherings, and day-trippers taking the time to explore and enjoy the atmosphere. With Shop & Win in full swing, there's an added element of fun and anticipation. Every purchase could be the one that wins - a small thrill that makes the lead-up to Christmas even more enjoyable.

The participating businesses in Bungendore and Braidwood will be listed online at treasuretrail.com.au/win, where you can also find full terms and conditions. Whether you're hunting for the perfect gift, picking up something for the home, or simply enjoying a day out, make sure to shop locally in our region.

Once again, the campaign received additional community support through the involvement of Bendigo Community Bank - Braidwood and Bungendore, helping strengthen local participation and outcomes for small businesses. Shop & Win is a Queanbeyan-Palerang Regional Council initiative, delivered to support the local economy and celebrate the businesses that make our towns unique.

Asthma in pregnancy research program expands to Queanbeyan

A world-leading asthma research program has expanded to Southern NSW, with Queanbeyan chosen as the first rural site to host the study. The Treatable Traits in Pregnancy (TTAP) Study is investigating how better understanding and management of asthma during pregnancy can improve outcomes for both mothers and babies.

Local midwife and research clinician Alexandra Overton is leading the NHMRC-funded study in Queanbeyan. She said the program's arrival in Southern NSW Local Health District marks an important opportunity for local families to contribute to research that could shape future care.

"Asthma is one of the most common chronic conditions affecting pregnant women, yet it is still under-recognised and under-treated. This study will give us valuable insights into how we can better support mothers and babies."

"The TTAP study is about looking at asthma differently in pregnancy - recognising individual traits and finding ways to manage them more effectively."

"Every pregnancy is different, and so is every woman's asthma. The treatable traits approach allows us to look more closely at each woman's individual needs."

"It's exciting that Queanbeyan is the first rural site, because women here can now contribute to research that will shape care for families well beyond our community," Ms Overton added..

The study is open to women who are pregnant between 12 and 17 weeks, aged 18 years or older, and living with asthma. Participation involves surveys, simple health checks and discussions about asthma management, with no changes to usual maternity care. Participants will receive small reimbursements for their time and travel.

The treatable traits approach looks at asthma in a more personalised way. Instead of treating asthma as the same for everyone, researchers identify the specific factors - or "traits" - that may be making an individual's asthma worse, such as allergies, reflux, poor inhaler technique, or anxiety. By recognising and targeting these traits, clinicians can tailor care to improve asthma control and reduce risks for both mothers and babies.

The TTAP study is coordinated nationally by Professor Vanessa Murphy from the University of Newcastle and the Hunter Medical Research Institute. Expanding into Queanbeyan allows researchers to include the experiences of women in Southern NSW Local Health District for the first time.

Professor Murphy, said, "Including sites such as Queanbeyan is vital to ensure our research reflects the diversity of women's experiences. This expansion means women in Southern NSW Local Health District can contribute to knowledge that will directly inform future clinical guidelines."

"The study's strength lies in its precision medicine approach - instead of treating asthma as one condition, we are identifying the traits that can be targeted for better outcomes."

"We are building evidence that will help clinicians make better decisions about asthma management in pregnancy. We are excited to partner with experienced local clinicians like Alex to make participation as easy and supportive as possible for women in the region."

Women interested in taking part can find out more on the Treatable Traits for Asthma Management in Pregnancy website. Women can also contact the research team on 0407 424 711 or email alexandramarie.reynolds@health.nsw.gov.au.

Bungendore Quilters: We're Getting Ready

Saturday and Sunday 22, 23 November

Bungendore War Memorial Hall

Jane Bloomfield

The wonderful boys from Hughes Freight Lines have once again stepped up to the plate and have picked up the huge array of stands, screens, plants, tubs and fabric. Our fantastic installers, Jim, Erik, Shannon and Allan are transforming the Memorial Hall to become a magical space of inspiration and colour. Annette and her quilting team are preparing the stands ready for the quilts to hang. It's a hive of activity and it's all coming together.

We're in the final stages of preparing for our annual quilt exhibition to be held this weekend. Come on down to see a great selection of quilts showing a huge diversity of designs, patterns, colours and blocks, raffle quilts, challenge displays (we have two challenges this year), sales table with quilts, handmade gifts, Christmas decorations, table runners, fabric, magazines and books – something for everyone!

You can vote for your favourite quilt and both challenges – lots of decisions to be made!

This year, for the first time, we will have a Make and Take area where our members will help you make a little fabric item you can take home with you. We have our guessing competition – this year it is buttons and junior member, Cherry, will be resurrecting the Quilt Block Hunt which is fun for both kids and adults. You will have to look closely at the quilts to find all the blocks!

Hours are Saturday 9:00am to 6:00pm and Sunday 9:00am to 4:00pm. Tickets are still $2.50 for 15 years and over. Raffle tickets are $2 each. Call into the War Memorial Hall this weekend and say hello - we would love to welcome you.

Korea

The Korean War started on 25 June 1950 when North Korea invaded the South, the war ended on 27 July 1953 after the signing of an armistice agreeing that the country would remain divided.

At the end of the Second World War, Korea which had formerly been occupied by the Japanese was divided along the 38th parallel, an internal border between North and South Korea based on a circle of latitude. The three-year war was exceptionally bloody and led to the deaths of 3 million people and tens of thousands of casualties.

North Korea fell under the influence of the Soviet Union, whilst the south relied on the support of the United States. The Korean People's Army (KPA) was established in North Korea in February 1948, from Korean communist guerrillas who had previously served with the Chinese People's Liberation Army but were 'advised' by Soviet personnel. By mid-1950 the KPA was made up of ten infantry divisions plus other units totalling some 223,000 men.

The KPA rapidly advanced southwards, trapping South Korean and American troops in a small perimeter around the port of Pusan. The United Nations (UN) was quick to respond and immediately encouraged its members to support South Korea. Many countries sent troops to support the south, including the United States, Great Britain, Australia, Canada, India, New Zealand and South Africa.

The UN commander General MacArthur ordered an amphibious landing at Inchon, a port halfway up the Korean Peninsula. His forces were able to drive the KPA back northwards and up to the Yalu River, the border between China and North Korea.

China entered the war at this point and, again, pushed UN forces back into the south. During the first half of 1951 fighting stalled and armistice negotiations began in July with little success and the opposing armies continued to face each other in trenches little more than a mile apart for the next two years.

Finally, on 27 July 1953, an armistice was signed agreeing that Korea would remain a divided country. The armistice was signed by officials from the United States, the People's Republic of China, North Korea and South Korea. This agreed to bring the fighting of the Korean War to an end. The armistice agreement was signed at Panmunjom between North and South Korea.

The committee would like to thank Vice Admiral Justin Jones AO CSC RAN, Scott Temby - Bugler, Australian Rugby Choir, Bungendore Public School, Bungendore High School, Headquarters Joint Operations Command - Commanding Officer & Command Warrant Officer, Headquarters Joint Operations Command - Catafalque Party

Burra Car Boot Sale the biggest in NSW

It was a monstrous Burra Car Boot Sale at Burra Park on Sunday 9 November from 9am to 1pm with 72 stalls at $10 per stall (cheapest stall site fee for a group sale) and visitors nudging 900 by the end of the day. Looking at the Garage Sale Trail website and speaking with Liz from Garage Sale Trail we are most likely the largest Group Sale in NSW.

The first stallholders arrived at 6.15am with the gates not planned to open until 7.30am. Some serious sellers with buyers scouring the stalls even as stall holders were setting up, looking to pick up some bargains. Burra Community Association raised just over $3,000 with these funds to be used for future events in Burra. The Burra Cafe proved popular with food sold out by midday. Two stalls were for Burra community groups that meet regularly in the Hall. Members of the newly built and opened Burra Community Shed (like a Men's shed but for all Burrans) were selling/giving away excess tools and equipment and raised just over $1,000 for purchasing equipment that is needed and the Burra Quilters raised $236 for charity. Total raised by Burra Car Boot Sale, Burra Community Shed and the Burra Quilters for the day was over $4,300. The Burra Rural Fire Brigade was in attendance with one of their fire trucks (with sirens regularly sounding) and displays of fire safety and games for the kids. Stall holders had stacks of things ranging from expensive equipment such as an electric bike and antiques to general goods which became someone else's treasure. No kitchen sink this year. The whole purpose was to pass things onto another happy owner and keep it all out of landfill. Sales were hectic with stall holders buying/swapping between each other as the day progressed. As one gentleman said 'come with a ute load and take home a ute and half'. Thank you to all stallholders and the general public that attended as buyers and visitors, to make the event such a resounding success. A massive thank you to all the volunteers that helped on the Saturday to set up and also on Sunday to man the gate, direct stall holders to their stall locations, organise and man the Burra Cafe for sale of egg and bacon rolls, sausage sandwiches, tea, coffee, ice creams and drinks and then the pickup of the event on the Sunday. The volunteers were: Debbie and John Convine, Sean and Kerrie Fogden, Nathan Carroll, Richard Bromhead, John Furlan, Greg and Deborah Hedger, Maree and Jeff Latimer, Robert Harman and Noelene Waters, Jake Seisan, Pam Hoffmeister, Clare Martin and Rob Hurle, Megan and Matt Doherty (and the kids), Tracey and Emily Howard. An amazing site was when everyone had left, there was only two bits of rubbish left on Burra Park grounds. More than you's go to the stall holders that donated all their leftover books to the Burra Street Library. Some constructive comments have been coming in from stallholders which will be looked at to make improvements and changes for next year. We definitely can attract stallholders, now the biggest challenge is to attract more people as buyers to visit Burra for the day from Queanbeyan/Canberra/Bungendore and the Queanbeyan Palerang Region. Any ideas anyone?! Debbie and John Convine on behalf of the Burra Community Association. Photos supplied

Farmers welcome speed limit support

NSW Farmers President Xavier Martin has welcomed the state government's common sense response to the federal government's push to slash rural speed limits. Mr Martin said the proposal to cut speed limits on country roads to 80km/h was a "straw man" solution for road safety, and serious investment in regional roads and bridges was needed to solve the problem. "Band aid solutions won't fix the problem of crumbling roads and bridges, or deal with the growing road toll here in the regions," Mr Martin said.

"Fixing the real driver of road trauma - that is, our ruined roads - is what will make a real difference. We need to get people home safely each day, and farmers need to be able to get their food and fibre to market safely as well." This week NSW Regional Transport and Roads Minister Jenny Aitchison made it "very, very clear... (that) , the NSW Government does not support blanket speed zone reviews across NSW." Mr Martin said safe, properly maintained roads were critical to safety, but so too were efficient, connected rail networks to take pressure off rural and regional roads. "Slowing us all down is simply a straw man solution, and if they're going to ignore the real problems at play, we'll never reduce our road toll," Mr Martin said. "If you look down the track, we'll all be crawling along while fresh food rots in the truck, all because governments no longer prioritise proper road repair and maintenance. "It's not the speed limits that are the problem - they've been set for decades - it's the fact that our roads aren't as safe as they used to be."

Laugh, Craft, Repeat

The Craft Room at Bungendore Learning Hub was again ringing with conversation and laughter on Thursday evening. The room was packed with local crafters who brought their own craft projects to work on, while they dined on CapriZ's wood-fired pizzas and chatted all things local craft and community. The group exchanged horror stories of the number of WIPS (works in progress) cluttering their desks, ironing boards and couches at home and found themselves competing in an impromptu game of "who's been working on their craft project the longest?" We won't mention names, but records were definitely broken. The group also chatted about plans for the Bungendore Crafters' Co-Operative in the coming year, including what charitable initiatives the group will endeavour to get up and running in 2026 to help those in need in our local community. We have a few exciting projects planned, all focusing on what the Co-Op holds dear to their heart: craft, kindness and sharing. If you would like to join in the fun and creative buzz at Bungendore Crafters' Co-Operative, come along to one of our BYO craft project evenings held every second Thursday. No membership fees, no entry level craft experience and no judgement! The Co-Op next meet for one of these evenings on Thursday 27th November at Bungendore Learning Hub: 55 Gibraltar Street Bungendore, from 6-8pm. Bring along your project and $5 for room hire and experience the welcoming and creative atmosphere of the Crafters' Co-Op. Octopus Australia reaches financial close on the $900 million Blind Creek Solar Farm and Battery project

Octopus Australia reaches financial close on the $900 million Blind Creek Solar Farm and Battery project

For the second time this year, Octopus Australia has brought a landmark energy project to financial close and into construction. Blind Creek Solar Farm and Battery project, located in Bungendore, NSW, will be one of the largest projects of its kind in the national grid, combining a solar farm and battery in a way that delivers more clean power into the evenings when demand is highest.

The project is backed by Octopus Australia funds, which includes investment from Hostplus, Rest Super, the Clean Energy Finance Corporation (CEFC), Westpac Private Bank and global infrastructure leader APG, a powerful signal of investor confidence in Octopus Australia's energy strategy.

Blind Creek is more than just a renewable energy project. Developed in close partnership with local landholders, it will operate as a true agri-solar model, specifically designed to enable sheep grazing to continue across the site while enhancing land productivity with solar infrastructure.

"Reaching financial close on Blind Creek marks a major milestone for Octopus Australia and our commitment to accelerating the clean energy transition. This achievement demonstrates the strength of our strategy to deliver renewable energy projects that provide long-term value for communities and investors alike." Octopus Australia Co-Managing Director of Renewables Sonia Teitel said.

CEFC CIO - Renewables and Sustainable Finance, Monique Miller said, "The start of construction at Blind Creek marks a major milestone in Australia's clean energy transition. This is a powerful example of how global capital and Australian innovation can work together to deliver renewable energy at scale. By integrating solar generation, battery storage and regenerative agriculture, Blind Creek is powering local homes while supporting local business. We're proud to be a part of this pioneering project as it drives change across the energy and agricultural sectors."

Once complete, the Blind Creek project will generate up to 300MW of clean electricity, enough to power more than 120,000 homes. Its 243MW / 486MWh battery will store energy for use during peak demand, delivering the equivalent emissions reduction of taking 200,000 cars off the road each year.

Octopus Australia continues its collaboration with GRS as EPC Contractor and Wartsila as battery energy storage system (BESS) supplier to deliver the DC-coupled solar hybrid project. The project will create up to 300 jobs at the height of construction and provide ongoing employment once operational.

Is your mortgage holding you back?

by Phil Harvey

Owning your own home has been the Australian dream for the last 100 years. Don't let your dream become your nightmare.

Having your own home can give you peace of mind and allow you to hang up pictures without getting permission from the landlord. But it can also hold you back.

Last week my daughter had grandparents' day. When I was speaking to my mum about some of the questions she was going to be asked, mum told the story of when she was born.

Even though it was only 80 years ago, her parents (who lived near Nyngan in NSW) lived in a tent at a railway siding. The nurse at the hospital gave my Nana a goat so she would be able to feed my mum (and her siblings).

It got me to thinking how much life has progressed in the last 80 years.

One of the biggest mistakes I see is young people trying to climb the property ladder quickly. Many young families today feel the need to have two new cars and a 4-bedroom house with two bathrooms and a double garage.

While this may make them feel good, it can be holding them back from a financial and lifestyle perspective.

Two alternatives include renting or buying a smaller place with a smaller mortgage...or you could live in a tent with a goat.

This might be going against popular opinion, but it is possible to be financially responsible and renting. Yes, you are helping someone else pay off their mortgage, but there are lots of financial benefits that come with renting.

If you are living in a place worth $1.2 million with a $1 million mortgage, you will be paying around $5,700 a month - this is nearly $70,000 a year. Plus, there will more than likely be another $10,000 in rates, water and insurance bringing your total annual costs to $80,000. And that is before the hot water heater needs replacing or the roof starts leaking.

Renting on the other hand usually costs around 3-4% of the value of the property. But that's it. No rates, maintenance or insurance. This could mean that instead of paying $80,000 a year, you are only paying $40,000 a year.

Renting can be worthwhile, but you need to invest the spare $40,000, not just use it to upgrade your lifestyle.

If you use it to upgrade your lifestyle, it will more than likely come back to bite you when it comes to a comfortable retirement.

If they invested this spare $40,000 every year (and even better used tax deductible debt to go with it), they would have more than enough to buy the same house mortgage free in 25 years.

The best thing though, is they could have done it without having to carry a crushing debt that felt like a noose around their neck.

QPRC Unsealed Roads Draft Policy (2025): comments close Monday 24 November

The draft Unsealed Council Road Policy (2025) replaces the current Unsealed Road Grading Policy adopted in 2022 and introduces major changes to how Council decides which gravel and dirt roads it maintains.

Draft Unsealed Council Road Policy (2025)

One of the most significant changes is that all unsealed public roads are now classified into two groups:

Maintained Roads - These are roads already on Council's maintenance schedule. They are graded and inspected at regular intervals based on traffic volume. This system of categories (from monthly grading for busy roads to once every three years for lightly used roads) remains unchanged.

Unmaintained Roads - This is a new formal category. These roads will not receive scheduled grading or maintenance. Council will only consider work on them if there is confirmed damage, a safety hazard or blocked access. Even then, Council has full discretion to decide whether, when and how it responds, depending on available resources, risk and cost.

In brief:

Previously, roads in this category were referred to as "Category 10 - not maintained," but the new policy expands the rules around how these roads are managed.

Under the draft policy, Council states it is not automatically responsible for carrying out work on all unsealed public roads. It can decide not to act and is not obliged to investigate every report of road damage.

Before undertaking any work, Council will consider safety risks, available funding, road condition, environmental impacts, number of residents affected and whether the road has been built to Council's minimum standards.

If residents or developers want a road added to the maintained network, it must first be built to Council's specifications. These include:

- Gravel surface at least 6 metres wide and 125mm deep
- Proper drainage systems and culverts
- Compliance with Australian standards for signage and safety
- The road must sit entirely within a surveyed public road reserve
- Any water crossings or heritage/ environmental issues must be addressed

To upgrade a road from unmaintained to maintained, the policy requires a resolution of the elected Council. It must consider construction quality, costs (both upgrade and ongoing maintenance), number of dwellings served and whether the road was previously maintained before 1 April 2018.

Council may make minor changes to grading frequency (by up to three categories) without needing to go to a Council vote.

This new policy will affect thousands of residents who rely on unsealed roads for school transport, emergency access, farming operations, any deliveries and daily travel.

Summary

QPRC is encouraging all residents for feedback on its revised Unsealed Council

Road Policy (2025), which outlines how the region's many gravel and dirt roads are maintained.

The draft aims to clarify what maintenance residents can expect, when ad-hoc repairs may be carried out on unmaintained roads, and the standards required for a road to be added to the maintained network. It also introduces a traffic-based system using Average Annual Daily Traffic (AADT) to determine maintenance levels.

The draft policy, FAQs and feedback form are available on Council's YourVoice page.

The Unsealed Council Road Policy 2025 is open for community comment from 27 October to 24 November 2025. This can also be viewed:

- At Council's Customer Service Centres, between 9am and 4pm Monday to Friday

Feedback can be provided on the draft Policy through:

- Completing an Online Submission Form on the YourVoice page
- Emailing it directly to council@qprc.nsw.gov.au with the subject title "Unsealed Council Road Policy 2025"
- Handwriting your submission and delivering it to Council's Customer Service Centres
- Posting your submission to PO Box 90, Queanbeyan NSW 2620

Only written submissions will be considered, and these must be received by Council before 24 November 2025.

Any submissions received may be included in the final report to Council.

Don't let scammers steal your Christmas cheer this year

Australia Post is warning customers to be on high alert as scammers accelerate fake delivery messages and emails in the lead-up to Christmas.

Scammers are taking advantage of the festive rush, targeting groups such as Facebook Marketplace users. They often pose as interested buyers and send links or QR codes via Messenger to fake 'Australia Post courier service' websites. These sites claim that payment will be processed online and that a courier will collect the item once payment is made when, in reality, these fraudulent sites are designed to steal personal and financial information.

This trend reflects a broader national issue with research from Australia Post<sup>1</sup> showing more than 90% of Australians have received a scam text or call, and nearly three-quarters reporting that scams most commonly impersonate shipping and parcel delivery services.

Adam Cartwright, Australia Post Chief Information Security Officer advised customers to track parcels through the official AusPost app and ignore any message requesting personal or payment information.

"As the pre-Christmas sales ramp up and more Aussies are expecting deliveries, scammers are exploiting that anticipation and urgency to trick people into clicking fake links or handing over personal information.

"If you receive a message asking for personal or payment details, you can be confident it's not from us. In fact, the safest way to track your item is through the official AusPost app," said Mr Cartwright.

Key advice for customers

- Download the official AusPost app and enable push notifications for parcel tracking. This is the most secure and reliable way to receive genuine delivery updates.
- Australia Post will never ask for personal or financial details via phone, text or email-including passwords, credit card, or bank details.
- Don't click on suspicious links in text message or emails

Australia Post is also seeing a resurgence of sophisticated phishing ahead of Christmas, including the global 'Darcula' operation, which rents scam toolkits to criminals that mimic trusted delivery brands. By sending messages via end-to-end encrypted channels such as iMessage and Rich Communication Services (RCS), Darcula can bypass traditional filters, making these scams harder to detect and block.

To sign up for a free MyPost account either visit <https://auspost.com.au/receiving/mypost> or download the AusPost app from the Apple Store or Google Play.

Planning Proposal Bungendore Sports Hub 7 & 15 Halfway Creek Rd

QPRC

Council has prepared a planning proposal seeking to amend the rezoning and associated planning controls of the Bungendore Sports Hub located at 7 and 15 Halfway Creek Road, Bungendore, within The Queanbeyan-Palerang Regional Local Environmental Plan 2022 (QPRLEP 2022).

On 23 October 2024, Council endorsed to forward the planning proposal to rezone 7 and 15 Halfway Creek Road, Bungendore to the NSW Department of Planning, Housing and Infrastructure (DPHI) seeking a Gateway determination.

The DPHI issued a Gateway determination on 14 February 2025 (PP-2024-2011) advising Council to proceed with further assessment of the planning proposal, including public consultation.

The Halfway Creek Road/ Bungendore Sports Hub planning proposal, and associated documents and associated studies are available in the document panel.

Proposed amendments

Amend the Local Environmental Plan (LEP) maps and rezone the privately owned land at 7 Halfway Creek Road, Bungendore (Lot 2 DP 548291 and the 20m wide dissecting section of uniformed public road) from RE1 Public Recreation to RU1 Primary Production.

Amend the Local Environmental Plan (LEP) maps and rezone the Council-owned community land at 15 Halfway Creek Road, Bungendore (Lot 1 DP 1262898) from RU1 Primary Production to RE1 Public Recreation. This will recognise the Recreational facilities (indoor) which includes an indoor swimming centre (aquatic centre), to be permitted on the land. Currently under the RU1 Primary Production zoning, Recreational facilities (indoor) are prohibited.

Consequently, it will also remove the land from the land reservation (LRA) map as it is no longer needed for the Bungendore Sports Hub.

Submissions may be made until close of business on Wednesday, 10 December 2025, in the following ways:

- By completing the survey at the YourVoice webpage
- By email to council@qprc.nsw.gov.au (referencing in the subject line - Halfway Creek Rd, Bungendore Planning Proposal)
- By mail to PO Box 90, Queanbeyan NSW 2620
- Delivered in person to one of the Council's customer service centres

Dementia confirmed as Australia's leading cause of death, ABS data reveals

Dementia confirmed as Australia's leading cause of death, ABS data reveals

The latest data from the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) recently released in the Causes of Death, Australia, 2024 report has named dementia as the leading cause of death in Australia, overtaking ischaemic heart diseases.

In 2024, dementia accounted for 9.4 per cent of all deaths, whilst the number of deaths caused by dementia has increased by 39 per cent over the last decade.

Dementia has been the leading cause of death for Australian women since 2016, with the 2024 data showing that 62.4 per cent of people who died from dementia were women.

Dementia Australia CEO Professor Tanya Buchanan said this data reinforces the critical need to invest in public health approaches to brain health and dementia risk reduction, while providing more targeted support for people impacted by dementia.

"There are currently an estimated 433,300 Australians living with dementia and without significant intervention, this number is expected to increase to more than one million by 2065," Professor Buchanan said.

"We need to act on dementia now. At a community level, we need to increase awareness of dementia and brain health, reducing the stigma experienced by so many impacted by dementia.

"Across health, aged, disability and community care sectors, we need to ensure quality dementia care, with palliative care tailored to the needs of people living with dementia, their families and carers at the end of their life.

"Although there are things we cannot change, like getting older or genetics, we now know that up to 45 per cent of dementia cases globally could be prevented or delayed by addressing modifiable risk factors.

"Dementia Australia is continuing to advocate to Government for investment in a national brain health and risk reduction campaign. We also support all Australians impacted by dementia."

The data released by the ABS, follows the latest update of the Australian Institute of Health and Welfare's (AIHW) Dementia in Australia report published in September this year that also reported dementia as the leading cause of death for Australians.

For more details on the ABS report, visit their website.

Legacy Village Marks Remembrance Day with Dedication of Commemoration Wall

A special Remembrance Day service was held at Queanbeyan Legacy Village with the unveiling of the new commemoration wall – a lasting tribute to the men and women who have served and died in the defence of our nation.

Attending the service were Legacy Widows, Legatees, families, and Friends of Legacy. Special guests and wreath layers were Ms. Jane Stuart Ass. Secretary of Grant and Hubs Department of Veteran Affairs; Lieutenant Commander Megan Evren from HMAS Harman and Legatee Emily Johnson.

The wall was made possible partly by Department of Veteran Affairs Grant for Saluting their Service Grants and The Stronger Communities Federal Grant.

Michael Bower was the Master of Ceremonies. Legatee President Suzanne McInnes delivered the Commemorative Service and the Dedication of the new Commemorative Wall.

“Today we gather in solemn reflection and deep gratitude to dedicate this new commemoration wall – a lasting tribute to the men and women who have served and died in the defence of our nation,” Suzanne said.

“This memorial has been made possible through the generosity and support of the Saluting Their Service grant from the Department of Veterans’ Affairs, and the Stronger Communities Programme Federal grant. Their assistance has helped bring this vision to life, and I think we would all agree that the finished wall before us more than meets the need – a dignified and enduring place for remembrance. To those here today who played a role in its realisation, we thank you.

“Memorials such as this fulfill an essential role in our communities. They give us a place to recognize, to remember, and to learn – to reflect upon the profound losses and the extraordinary achievements that have shaped our nation’s history through war and through peace. They remind us that freedom and peace were bought at great cost – paid by those who answered the call to serve, often far from home, and too often never returned.

“As we dedicate this wall, let us remember all who have worn our nation’s uniform – those who stood in defence of Australia and its values, those who endured the hardships of service, and those who made the ultimate sacrifice. Let us also remember the families who waited, who mourned, and who carried the legacy of their loved ones forward.

“This commemoration wall is dedicated to all who have served and died – to those we knew, and those whose names and stories we may never know, but whose memory we will always treasure.

May this place stand as a reminder to future generations of the courage, sacrifice, and spirit of those who served – and may we, in our remembrance, renew our commitment to peace.

“Lest we forget.”

After the Service Legacy widows were invited to place their poppies in the Memorial Garden.

Bungendore High School Buzz

Bungendore High School

If you've wandered past the high school recently, you may have noticed there's been a flurry of action getting the vegetable gardens ready for spring planting. Our agricultural technology students have been heavily weeding the raised beds, watering the establishing potato crop, and preparing the soil for a pumpkin patch. They even snuck in a cheeky Backstreet Boys singalong using chipping hoes as microphones.

Meanwhile, Year 7 science has been investigating simple machines by designing, constructing and testing catapults. Students were given parameters to work within which included a maximum budget of $100. Supplied items had a unique cost, and students needed to account for this in their design so they could deliver their project under budget. Some designs were exceptionally effective, with small plasticine projectiles making their way onto the school roof!

And finally, as part of our Contributing to a Better World Crew project, the Food Drive Crew organised and ran a raffle to collect food cans to be donated to the Bungendore Food Hub. Each donated can scored an entry in the draw. Congratulations to our student and staff winners, Holly, Elena, Miss Hall and Mr MB. And a huge thanks to the local businesses who supported the raffle with prizes; Priceline Pharmacy,

Bungendore and Captains Flat Christmas Hamper Appeal 2025

As Christmas draws near, our villages once again have the opportunity to share joy and generosity through the annual Christmas Hamper Appeal, supporting individuals and families in the Bungendore and Captains Flat communities.

This much-loved initiative is a combined effort of St Mary's Catholic Church, Bungendore Anglican Church, and the Bungendore Rotary Club, with wonderful support from local businesses, community groups, and many generous individuals. We especially acknowledge the ongoing partnership and kindness of the Bendigo Community Bank of Bungendore & Bungendore Country Butchers, whose support helps ensure this appeal reaches those who need it most.

Last year, thanks to the goodwill of our villages, we packed 86 hampers. This year, we anticipate preparing a similar number and we need your help to make it happen. For 2025, we are seeking donations of non-perishable food items that bring Christmas cheer, $25 and $30 gift cards for local teenagers and new toys and books for young children.

Donations can be dropped off at Phil's Emporium, the Bungendore Food

Hub, either church, or the decorated trolley at Bungendore IGA anytime before December. Our committee sends a heartfelt thank you to our villages as your kindness truly makes a difference each and every year.

If you know someone who might be blessed by receiving a hamper, please contact either church: bungendore@cg.org.au or contact@bungendoreanglican.org.au, or visit Phil's Emporium. Together, we can make Christmas a little brighter for those around us.

Art of the Tea Towel 2 joins with the Airing of the Quilts in Braidwood this November

QPRC's Arts and Heritage team's first 'Art of the Tea Towel' exhibition graced the walls of Rusten House Art Centre, Queanbeyan, as part of The Australian and Queanbeyan-Palerang Heritage Festivals in 2022. We invited the community to submit tea towels that they had either created or collected, along with the story of the tea towel which accompanied the display. The exhibition was a roaring success, with over 60 tea towels on display and many people still commenting on it. This exhibition was also the inception of the QPRC Tea Towel Collection by local and regional artists, reflecting their creativity and sense of place. The 2025 exhibition will feature this collection and that of nationally recognised screenprint artist Alison Alder from Braidwood, who has kindly offered to lend a selection of her original tea towel works. Also included are new works by other regional artists and students from the local schools, with some offering additional tea towels for sale. The exhibition will be launched on Saturday 15 Nov 3 to 5pm, with a champagne afternoon tea at the Braidwood Regional Arts Group Gallery - 45 Wallace Street Braidwood. This will be followed on Sunday 16 Nov by a tea towel printing workshop conducted by Mary-Lou Nugent, with the exhibition continuing on 22-23 Nov, 10am to 3pm during the Quilt Event. This exhibition is presented in conjunction with the 30th Braidwood Airing of the Quilts Event ~ 22-23 November 2025, with a special anniversary Tea Towel being produced for this activation. This Annual Quilt extravaganza has become an important date of the region's textile events calendar.

First held back in 1995, the event began with 25 quilts being hung from Braidwood's heritage listed building facades and 19th century verandas. The event was dreamed up and brought to fruition by June Weatherstone and Jill McLeod, co-conspirators who planned side by side from their Quilt Shop and Gallery in Braidwood's main street. Inspiration was drawn from the age-old practice of airing your quilts after the long cold winter, with this annual domestic act heralding the true coming of spring. Transposing this practice into a street exhibition was a unique and bold initiative that has captured the imagination of quilters from around the country, who vie for a spot in the outdoor or indoor competitive exhibition at the Braidwood National Theatre, also in Wallace Street. As the event has grown and evolved over the past three decades, many community groups have been involved in developing their own complementary displays to value add to the main street exhibition, this year being no exception. The Braidwood branch of Queanbeyan-Palerang Libraries is holding a small exhibition of quilts and will host the launch of Chrissie Bellbrae's debut book 'The Florentine Quilt', as well as a Conservation of Textiles talk by Victoria Pearce, Senior Conservator at Endangered Heritage. There will be a textile focused outdoor market in Ryrie Park, a quilted Christmas Stocking display in the shopfronts of the main street, and quilt displays in both the Uniting and Anglican Churches. There will be the launch of the newly restored 1930 Dodge vintage vehicle at the old D & S Motors, 88 Wallace Street, from 1pm. The Braidwood Museum will also be open for the weekend 10am to 2pm both days, and if visitors are not careful, they might never leave! Photo supplied

2025 Draft Code of Meeting Practice: comments close Thursday 20 November

QPRC All NSW Councils must adopt a Code of Meeting Practice that incorporates the mandatory provisions of the 2025 Model Meeting Code by 31 December 2025. Have your say Before finalising our new Code, we are required to publicly exhibit a draft version for at least 28 days and allow at least 42 days for community feedback. A key focus of the 2025 updates is promoting meetings that are conducted in a dignified and orderly manner. To help you better understand these changes, the NSW Department of Planning, Housing and Infrastructure has prepared an FAQ sheet, which is available for download in the document library on the YourVoice page. We encourage you to review the draft Code and provide your feedback within the consultation period. Your input plays a vital role in shaping an effective and transparent meeting framework for our council.

Council resolved to write to the NSW Minister for Local Government to voice its objection to elements of the new Model Code. The revised Code of Meeting Practice is open for community comment from 9 October to 20 November 2025. This can also be viewed at <https://yourvoice.qprc.nsw.gov.au>

1. At Council's Customer Service Centres, between 9am and 4pm Monday to Friday
2. Feedback can be provided on the draft Policy through:
1. Completing an Online Submission Form at the YourVice webpage.

3. Hand writing your submission and delivering it to Council's Customer Service Centres
4. Posting your submission to PO Box 90, Queanbeyan NSW 2620

Only written submissions will be considered and these must be received by Council before 20 November 2025. Any submissions received may be included in the final report to Council.

Queanbeyan Show Delivers a Roaring Weekend of Family Fun and Regional Pride

The Queanbeyan Show burst into life with its signature blend of country charm, high octane entertainment, and agricultural spirit. From the thunderous roar of the AussieFMX motorbikes to the shrill excitement of the copious number of rides down in sideshow alley, the crisp air was thick with the scent of dagwood dogs and the buzz of thousands of showgoers enjoying the weekend.

For families, the Community Bank Canberra Barnyard was the heart of the action. Little ones were treated to face painting, cuddly encounters in the petting zoo, and energetic dance demonstrations from Eden Dance Academy. But the true stars of the weekend were Ryder, Chase, and Marshall from PAW Patrol, who lit up the Barnyard stage with six live shows. Their six shows across the weekend drew large crowds, their little faces beaming as they danced along with their heroes from Adventure Bay to the Pup Pup Boogie. Down in the main arena, the spirit of traditional family fun was alive and well. Silly games brought out fierce (and hilarious) competition, with Donnie from Crookwell claiming the title of the Show's first-ever Dagwood Dog Eating Champion. Layla's mum became a crowd favourite, as did Josh from Bali, diving into nearly every game with infectious enthusiasm and good humour.

The Show also proudly showcased Queanbeyan's agricultural heritage. Interactive displays and competitions in horse, poultry, and cattle categories highlighted the region's deep farming roots. The Arts Pavilion entries surged by 80% compared to last year, with a wave of new exhibitors, many of them children bringing fresh energy and ensuring the longevity of the pavilion. Pavilion Steward Janice Moore said, "it was so great to see so many children entering this year, it's just wonderful." Among the standout entries was Jason Farmer, crowned Champion of Champions for his Lions

Head metalwork sculpture.

Thrill-seekers were treated to non-stop action courtesy of AussieFMX, whose freestyle motocross stunts kept audiences on the edge of their seats. But it was the DockDogs National Titles that truly stole the show. With three days of flying leaps, massive splashes, and a soundtrack of rocking tunes and MC banter, the competition was a sensory feast. Farmer Dave, real name Dave Graham of Big Brother fame led the charge, guiding competitors through their paces and rallying the crowd into a full-blown cheer squad.

"The energy from Queanbeyan was next level," said Farmer Dave. "Personally, I haven't worked with a more involved local show committee who matched our level of fun and involvement. Hats off to Queanbeyan for rounding up a massive year for DockDogs in the best way possible."

The crowd's enthusiasm translated into a flurry of personal bests for teams from across Australia, proving that when the audience brings the "Ooo's," "Aaaahhs," and thunderous applause, the dogs fly higher and splash harder.

Queanbeyan Show Society President Josh Williams summed it up best: "Without the people that travel from across the country to be here, we don't have a show." His gratitude extended to Sponsors like Icon Water, Lennock Ram, Walpett Engineering, Langes Auto and so many more; the stallholders, volunteers, and every smiling face that helped make the weekend unforgettable.

The surprises during the weekend weren't just limited to those attending, with one of the best surprises reserved for the Show Society Committee, long-time member Bill Lilley was warmly recognised for his enduring contributions as an Honorary Life Member, the shows highest honour. Bill is the shows current treasurer and stalwart of the show, his hard work and dedication is second to none and he is absolutely adored by the committee members.

From motorbikes to metalwork, dancing pups to flying dogs, the 2025 Queanbeyan Show was a roaring success celebrating community, tradition, and the kind of joy that only a country show in the city can deliver.

Slashing red tape to make heritage sites more energy efficient

Owners of state heritage-listed properties can now install solar panels, batteries, insulation and draught proofing without seeking formal approval, under changes that will make properties more energy efficient and ensure cheaper, renewable energy is accessible to more people.

This significant step by the NSW Government to align heritage conservation with climate action is part of an update to Heritage Act exemptions, which expands the list of activities that do not require heritage approval.

The expanded exemptions will make it easier to maintain, modernise and activate heritage-listed locations, making them efficient and sustainable places to live, learn, work and gather.

Owners and managers of buildings on the State Heritage Register will no longer need to seek approval from the Heritage Council of NSW for the following upgrades and activities:

- Energy saving and sustainable technology including solar panels, batteries, insulation and draught proofing
- Security systems
- Fire suppression
- Geotechnical testing
- Temporary events up to 90 days, to align with NSW Vibrancy Reforms
- Filming up to 90 days
- Accessibility measures including access ramps and bathroom fit outs
- Aboriginal cultural practices
- Water infrastructure
- Land and bushfire management including hazard reduction
- Repair and replacement of materials including brick and stone walls.

The revised exemptions are subject to conditions that ensure the heritage values of the property are protected. For example, solar panels are exempt if the system is under 10kW and the panels are not facing the street. Alterations must also be carried out by people with appropriate skills.

Amendments to protections for low-impact temporary uses are in line with recommendations in the Productivity Commission report into the 24-hour economy, to encourage greater heritage asset use for cultural and creative purposes. Temporary event exemptions have tripled to 90 days per year.

The NSW Government is also supporting the NSW film industry by allowing more site usage for filming purposes without the need for a heritage approval - from 30 to 90 days before approval is needed - to open them up to new or longer film scheduling and enable production scheduling.

Queanbeyan to Bungendore Bulk Water Supply

NOVEMBER 2025

Background

This factsheet provides an update on the proposed Queanbeyan to Bungendore bulk water supply trunk main. We posted the previous update to Bungendore residents in May 2025. The May update and further information is available on the project webpage www.qprc.nsw.gov.au/bungendore-water.

Council is working to get the Queanbeyan to Bungendore bulk water supply trunk main to tender-ready stage.

What does tender-ready look like?

There are six critical criteria that must be satisfied and made tender-ready before Council can consider whether to proceed with the project or not. These six key factors are detailed below.

1. Design and plans

We have completed detailed drawings and technical documents for the project. Aspects of these surveys and studies fed into the Review of Environmental Factors for the project.

2. Environmental Approval

The Review of Environmental Factors (REF) was on public exhibition during May 2025. We received a number of comments, and we are finalising responses to these submissions, including engaging independent environmental advice.

3. Cross-Border Water Agreement

The ACT and NSW Potable Water Issues Steering Committee are finalising a draft Cross-Border Water Agreement to formalise long-term water supply arrangements for Bungendore. This draft Agreement would replace previous memoranda dating back to 2006 and 2008 for Queanbeyan, and establish a shared governance framework for the sustainable supply of ACT-sourced water to both Queanbeyan-Palerang Regional Council and Yass Valley Council as key ACT regional growth areas in NSW.

4. Water (and Sewer) Pricing

The Palerang Communities Integrated Water Cycle Management Plan is being reviewed. This includes long-term plans to consider the cost of maintaining, improving and using water infrastructure and how it will be funded. Work is progressing on this review, with financial information recently provided to our modeller. We expect the modelling and strategy development to be completed by early 2026. We will then engage with the community about the review.

5. Funding

Council approved the submission of an application to the National Water Grid Fund to deliver this project which was prioritised by NSW and submitted to the Australian Government in June 2025. The process of assessment and review is underway. This is still a project under consideration by the Australian Government, and a decision is not likely to be made until the Australian Government budget process in mid-2026.

6. Legal and Land Matters

Council authorised the beginning of land acquisition negotiations along the route in April 2025. All affected landholders have been contacted with initial 'opening letters'. Draft deeds for access and options for acquisition have also been provided. Letters of valuation are beginning to be issued.

Banks urge Black Friday shoppers to steer clear of dodgy deals

Shoppers are being urged to stay alert to the risk of scammers as Black Friday sales kick-off, after almost $40 million was lost to buying and selling scams over the past year.

The Australian Banking Association (ABA) is reminding shoppers to be on the lookout for:

- Fake websites and ads, often AI generated and designed to mimic legitimate brands
- Social media marketplace scams including fake listings or sellers who vanish once paid
- Fake parcel delivery notification scams via text or email about missed deliveries.

ABA CEO Simon Birmingham urged shoppers to remain vigilant as scammers are out in force.

"Shopping scams are everywhere at this time of year. With Black Friday sales more popular than ever, scammers are looking to capitalise on the surge in shopping activity," Mr Birmingham said.

"Aussies looking for a bargain will spend billions over the next few weeks and scammers will be lining up to take a slice of the action.

"Scammers are becoming more savvy, increasingly using AI to mimic legitimate businesses or create fake online stores or advertisements.

"As you shop online it pays to double-check your purchasing from a legitimate website. The last thing you want is to get stitched up by a dodgy deal.

"Australians should also be on the lookout for fake parcel notifications sent via text or email asking you to share information or pay for delivery fees. This is a very common tactic used by criminals to steal your personal and financial details."

Mr Birmingham also said Australian banks now had some of the strongest anti-scam measures in the world to help shield customers from scammers.

"Our banks are now using Confirmation of Payee technology, payments warnings and delays as well as real-time detection and scam-blocking tools to help stop money from getting into the wrong hands.

"While banks are working around the clock to stop scammers in their tracks, customer vigilance is still crucial. A few seconds of caution will make sure you're getting the real deal."

What is this growth in my gum tree?

Andy Taylor, Senior NRM Advisor

If you’ve noticed a mass of different looking leaves on your tree, like pictured here, it’s likely a native mistletoe plant and it has a very important role to play in Australian woodlands. From its quirky partnership with the mistletoe bird to its role as a keystone species, mistletoe is quietly shaping ecosystems in ways most of us never imagined. In ecology, a ‘keystone species’ is one that has a disproportionately large impact on its environment compared to its abundance.

Keystone species are essential in maintaining the health and diversity of the ecosystem where they are found. The loss of a keystone species can have dramatic impacts on the surrounding environment.

- Some well-known keystone species include:
- cassowaries disperse seeds in rainforests, maintaining the balance and diversity of their ecosystem
  - grey-headed flying-foxes are important to native species of hard woods, palms and rainforest plants because they distribute seeds and are responsible for pollination

- bees pollinate plants that feed other animals (including humans).

In proof of mistletoes importance an experiment was undertaken by Charles Sturt University where the removal of mistletoe from a section of woodland resulted in the loss of close to a third of woodland-dependent birds compared to sites where mistletoe had not been removed!

But how does it get in my tree in the first place?
In Australian woodlands and forests, mistletoe plants are mostly spread by the elusive mistletoe bird. This small bird flies from tree to tree gobbling up the mistletoe fruit. They also have fast metabolisms, and it doesn’t take long before it needs to do its business, generally occurring every 4-12 minutes. The mistletoe bird only digests the flesh of the mistletoe fruit but not the seeds, which emerge from the bird intact, but the sticky nature of the meal means the mistletoe bird must execute a few swipes of its backside where it is perched, effectively wiping the seed onto a new branch. Not only does the seed stick to the branch, but it is deposited with its very own blob of fertiliser. This then dries and cements the seed to the branch ready to germinate and grow into the next plant.

There are 250 woodland bird species in NSW and almost half of these have suffered declining populations in recent decades due to over clearing, habitat fragmentation and simplification, putting them on the threatened species list. That’s not good news so it’s critical we understand how our woodlands function to support this rich diversity, like mistletoe and the mistletoe bird.

Whilst the plant is a parasite upon its host tree, it rarely causes death unless the tree is isolated or unhealthy. For this reason, it is very important to keep woodlands intact and regenerating because they decline more rapidly without keystone species like mistletoe.

If you are interested in managing sections of your property to increase and maintain biodiversity, get in contact with your Local Land Services NRM officer and we can help with:

- identifying important habitats in the landscape near you
- identifying threats to your woodlands
- Identifying and planning woodland enhancements
- balancing biodiversity outcomes with agricultural activities

The Resources that Bind Us

Andy Taylor Senior NRM Advisor

Soil, water, plants, and animals form the fabric of our landscape, linking farms and the people who live on them. How we manage these vital resources together determines the land’s ability to remain productive, biodiverse, and resilient in a changing climate.

Our landscapes face many pressures—erosion, invasive weeds, feral animals, and overgrazing. Sometimes, the choices we make can unintentionally harm our properties and, at times, those of our neighbours. Some of these issues are easy to fix, like installing a fence to protect vegetation from livestock or reduce erosion along waterways. Others require more planning and ongoing effort, such as repairing severe erosion, controlling pests or changing farm production systems.

In recent years, challenges like drought, bushfires, and floods have intensified, leaving some areas degraded. With more extreme weather events predicted, the risk of further damage is growing.

Each of us has a role in building the resilience of our land and the landscape, against these threats. Experience shows that when we work together towards a common goals, results come faster and last longer.

Local Land Services is here to help landholders stay ahead with practical advice and support. We run events across the region, share information through our South East Circular newsletter, and provide boots-on-the-ground assistance by visiting your property.

Plan to protect livestock during bushfire season

Local Land Services is urging farmers and animal owners to include livestock and pets in their bushfire planning.

"It's crucial to have a clear plan in place for your animals. When disaster strikes, being organised can make all the difference," said Piers Harper, Local Land Services Principal Program Manager, Emergency Services.

"Start by determining the trigger point to activate your plan and allow time for unexpected challenges.

"Whether you evacuate or shelter in place, know how you'll move, house and care for your animals.

"You can't rely on being able to engage a commercial carrier or get to an animal safe place, it's best to have a self-sufficient plan."

In situations where evacuation is not possible, it is best to prepare a safe stock containment area on your property.

This could be a heavily grazed paddock, a ploughed area, or a large, clear stockyard.

"The key is that it's away from fire-prone vegetation and has access to food and water," Mr Harper said.

"Make sure it's well-prepared, with multiple access points, so you can quickly relocate livestock when bushfire risk is high."

It is also important for landholders to prepare an animal emergency kit with a first aid kit, medications, five days' worth of food and water, and any vital supplies.

"Keep vaccinations, microchips, ID tags and National Livestock Identification System details up to date," Mr Harper said.

"Up-to-date identification improves the chance of reuniting with your animals if they're lost in an emergency."

Absentee landholders are encouraged to consider options to mitigate the risks and impacts of bushfires, including visiting their property on a regular basis, have arrangements in place with farm contractors, managers and potentially neighbours, and be in regular contact with neighbours and relevant local service providers and community groups.

Precision in language - why correct terminology matters in pastures and grazing systems

Jo Powells

Why correct terminology matters in pastures and grazing systems.

In Australia's vast and varied agricultural landscape, using correct terminology in pastures and grazing systems is essential for effective land management, communication and productivity.

From the rangelands to the temperate grazing zones of New South Wales, terminology shapes how farmers, agronomists and researchers understand and apply best practices.

Terms like stocking rate, pasture rest, carrying capacity, and rotational grazing aren't just jargon - they represent specific strategies that impact soil health, livestock performance and long-term sustainability. Misunderstanding or misusing these terms can lead to overgrazing, pasture degradation and reduced profitability. For example, confusing "carrying capacity" with "stocking rate" could result in poor pasture utilisation or overgrazing depending on the misinterpretation.

Correct terminology also supports collaboration across regions and disciplines. Agricultural advisors, government agencies and producers rely on shared language to interpret data, implement policy and adopt innovations. Resources like the Grazier's Guide to Pastures provide standardised definitions and management principles tailored to NSW's grazing zones.

As climate variability and market pressures intensify, terminology is evolving. Concepts like carbon sequestration, regenerative grazing and multi-species pastures reflect new priorities in sustainable agriculture. Staying current with these terms enables producers to access funding, meet certification standards and engage in emerging markets.

Correct terminology is the foundation of informed decision-making in Australian grazing systems. It empowers producers to manage land responsibly, communicate effectively and adapt to a changing agricultural future.

If you feel confused by terminology or want to learn more about managing pastures, livestock and grazing systems then reach out to your Agricultural Advisor at Local Land Services.

The best men's Rugby League team in Australia's Top Small Tourism Town

What an awesome tale to tell. Two mighty titles in the one month. That's plenty to celebrate, and celebrate we all did.

In early September Bungendore was named Australia's Top Small Tourism Town receiving the prestigious award which celebrates the village community and charm, things that bring people to visit Bungendore again and again.

September also saw the Bungendore Tigers defeat the Harden Hawks taking out the 2025 grand final and the George Tooke Shield, that's back-to-back wins for the Tigers! "TigerTown" they called Bungendore and the town was adorned in orange and black to cheer the team to victory. It was a tight game but the boys made sure the shield stayed in Bungendore for another year.

To recognise both awards, pictured are a few of the players showing off the silverware under the sign for Australia's Top Small Tourism Town currently outside Bungendore Village Leather.

Mayor's Column

Last Monday, we launched our 2026 Music by the River event in partnership with Icon Water and the Canberra Symphony Orchestra. We are so proud to be holding our 10th annual Music by the River event on Saturday 21 February 2026 – and what better way to celebrate this milestone than with the iconic music of Queen! Tickets for reserve seating go on sale Monday 1 December

Works are progressing well on the second Jerrabomberra reservoir project, in the Jerrabomberra Mountain Reserve. An existing 1.8ML reservoir was demolished at the end of October, and earthworks have recently begun. Construction of the base for the new reservoir is set to continue through to February 2026. The new reservoir will be a 19.4ML concrete reservoir and is being constructed adjacent to the existing reservoir. This reservoir supplies water to most of Queanbeyan. The new reservoir will allow us to refurbish the existing reservoir and provide additional water storage. For more information about the project, go to www.qprc.nsw.gov.au/second-Jerrabomberra-reservoir

Nominations for 2026 Australia Day Awards close in less than two weeks, and we need your help to ensure local legends in Queanbeyan-Palerang get the recognition they deserve. Plenty of individuals, community organisations, and events in our region deserve awards. For example, the Majors Creek Hotel Woodchop was Event of the Year for Braidwood last year, bringing the community together and attracting many visitors. If you know of a community group or event worthy of an Australia Day Award, please submit a nomination. You can nominate for Citizen, Young Citizen, Senior Citizen, Community Event, or Community Organisation of the Year in Braidwood, Bungendore, Captains Flat, and Queanbeyan until 1 December at www.qprc.nsw.gov.au/Australia-Day-Awards.

We held our first of our community meetings in Braidwood earlier in November and it was a great opportunity to hear about local priorities in town. These meetings aren't just a chance to meet your local representatives, they're a chance for you to share your priorities and ideas to make Queanbeyan-Palerang even better. You can still meet us tonight in Bungendore (Wednesday 19 November) at the Norah Starrs (Bungendore) Community Centre from 6-8pm, Queanbeyan on Thursday 20 November at the WB Freebody Council Chambers, Nellie Hamilton Centre from 6-8pm, and Nerriga on Saturday 22 November at the Nerriga Community Hall from 10am-12pm. Find out more and register your attendance at www.qprc.nsw.gov.au/events

Bungendore Bunyips

Bungendore Bunyips Blue's ventured into the Capital taking on ANU Navy. In what proved to be a very tight battle Bungendore Blue's were asked if ANU Navy could field first has over half their team had a disco to attend. O in his first game as captain showed the Bunyips sporting ways by agreeing to bat. So off Mason and Ollie went to open. Up against some tight bowling and the biggest field we had played on they got us off to a steady start both showing an array of shots before retiring and providing a solid foundation for Laura and O to build on - and that they did giving the opposition very few chances before making way for Noah and Cam to finish the innings off. Cams running between the wickets and Noah's aggressive batting help build on the total leaving ANU Navy to chase 62.

The Blue's got off to a great start with all our bowlers bowling tight and with everyone taking on the lessons from training there was a marked improvement on our actions and bowling consistency. Blue's also got there first stumping with Noah taking a sharp chance. Laura and Cam also kept well. Unfortunately Blue's went down in a tight one. But with plenty of positives and improving.

There was no shortage of excitement at Warren Little oval as our Bungendore Bunyips took to the field for their latest match against the Bengal Tigers. The Bunyips capitalised on the early thunderstorm, taking advantage of the wet wicket by choosing to bowl first.

A dream start saw 2 wickets in the first over. Across the innings everyone was focused in the field and the bowling was tight - runs were certainly hard to come by for the Tigers.

The Bunyips strength was highlighted in their batting with Hugo, Ashton and Kobe giving us a solid platform to build off, each scoring 12 runs. Jay broke the trend with a quarter century, including 3 cracking boundaries! Completing the highlight reel the twins finally used their powers for good turning running between the wickets into an art form. Their quick feet and even quicker thinking saw them sneak a stack of cheeky singles, much to the frustration of the opposition and the delight of their own teammates.

Lachlan was deservedly named Player of the Match for his all-round effort. His commitment and positive attitude lifted the whole side and showed what team sport is all about.

All up, there was plenty of good-natured banter and teamwork. It was great to see every player give it their all and enjoying the game together. Bring on the next round!

Inaugural Community Bank Bungendore Invitational Fours Tournament Celebrates Success

The inaugural Community Bank Bungendore Invitational Fours Tournament was held last weekend at the Bungendore Bowling and Sports Club and concluded with resounding success. The Club was thrilled to welcome teams from near and far to compete against our own teams including players from Tathra, Caringbah, Braidwood, Bombala, Wagga, Malua Bay, and the Royal Australian Navy. We thank you all for travelling, competing in great spirit, and helping make the tournament such a memorable event!

The tournament featured a fiercely competitive field, yet it was Mick Fawthrop, Jamie Fawthrop, Ian Whybrow, and Bob Wilson from Wagga who emerged victorious, claiming the coveted 1st prize. Their teamwork and skillful play were lauded by both spectators and fellow competitors alike.

Congratulations to all the winners and a huge well done to every participant – the standard of bowls and sportsmanship was outstanding across the board. Our winners were as follows:

- 1st Prize $2400 - Mick Fawthrop, Jamie Fawthrop, Ian Whybrow and Bob Wilson (Wagga)
- 2nd Prize $1600 - Andy Orrell, Peter Stanes, Wayne Bolten and Mark Wiler (Caringbah)
- 3rd Prize $1200 - Matt Beare, Steve Maher, Tony Melrose and Steve Roots (Malua Bay)
- 4th Prize $800 - Jackson Boulden, Gary Freeland,

Neville Hession and Stuart Murray-Prior (Caringbah)
5th Prize $400 - Oompah, Glenn Fahey, Bruce Waugh and Alan Monfries (Wagga)
We also had two teams take away the day prize: Saturday Winners $300 - Rick Cristy, Anthony McCudden, Rob McCudden and Dylan Cuthbert (Tathra), and Sunday Winners $300 - Paul Opray, Andrew Cowling, Matt Cheeseman and Paul Totterdell.

The weekend, which marked the beginning of what is hoped will become an annual tradition, was supported by our major sponsor Bungendore Community Bank as well as a number of local Bungendore businesses whose generosity was integral and without it we wouldn't of been able to pull off such a fantastic opportunity for the 56 bowlers who took part.

Special thanks to: PRD Real Estate, PHL Surveyors, Bungendore Cellars, MOJO Constructions, Patterson Rural Contracting, Taylor's of Bungendore, IGA Bungendore, Bungendore Mitre 10, Capital Customs, Hamson Constructions, Monaro Liquid Waste, Bungendore Counrty Butchery and Gunna Doo Bakery.

We also extend our heartfelt gratitude to all participants and volunteers whose efforts made the day memorable, including Phil Bruce for umpiring, Colin Elder for scoring, Frank Solomos for keeping all players and officials fed, Danielle Gronow and Greg Mitchell for helping keep the players fluids up and to our amazing bar staff and Club committee members who went well and truly above and beyond to ensure the weekend was a success. Thank you to all.

The weekend truly showcased what community, teamwork, and good fun are all about and anticipation is already building for next year's tournament, promising to be an even bigger and better tournament.

Wamboin Golf - November 2025

Sunday, 2 November. It was the Wamboin Open and all the tried and noted golfers from the regions near and far had mustered at the Hall. The day was sponsored by the Club itself so we thanked ourselves profusely for the prizes and eats lovingly prepared by Joan Mason, Marylou Gorham, Sam Urquhart and Rob Gorham. There were two divisions, Open and Handicap. The kindly weather gods outdid themselves so the company could enjoy a pleasant early Summer round.

Back in the club house, as the Captain pushed the buttons, we checked to see if we'd got it straight. There are three choices. First there's the two-state solution which is supported by most people except the Knesset and 70 per cent of Palestinians. Second there's the one-state solution which is opposed by most people except the Knesset and 70 per cent of Palestinians, but there's an obvious catch. Third is the no-state solution or anarchy which is more or less what we've got at the moment. That is not supported by anyone except Iran and its satellites. Your mission, should you choose to accept it, is to solve the conundrum without introducing additional states. While watching the pictures of the devastated Gaza with my old pal, William Butler Yeats, I heard him sigh and say "That is not a country for old men". Spot on, W.B. Many people never got the chance to grow old there. We noted that Trump again waggled a spongy finger at Putin after reneging on his offer to Ukraine of Tomahwk missiles. The deal could be that he is named Czar and gets to build a golf course in Gorky Park. In the meantime we should remember what a 'deal' is: you give something to get something. According to Trump Ukraine should give ground to gain peace. This would be what is called a 'bad deal'. Lidia Thorpe has done it again. Now she's threatened to burn down Parliament. Whenever Thorpe hits the headlines I am forcefully reminded of the character created by my old mate Walt Kelly: Strawberry Shortcake, the Baton Rouge Bombshell, whose explosive personal appearances were for the sole purpose of drawing attention to herself.

The Palace has announced that the artist formerly known as Prince will now be called Mister and be kicked out of his 30 room digs. His brother, the artist formerly known as Prince but now known as King is rumoured to be working on a story that Mister's not really his brother but a love child of the late Queen's swinging sister, Margaret. That'll settle it all down. In Australia, Back Bench Barnaby started a run for the door out of the Coalition over the issue of net zero which the Nats trenchantly oppose. Word is the Libs may follow suit to keep the band together. It's just crazy. Net zero isn't real. It's an aspiration. What we do in the attempt to achieve it is the real issue. We need a plan that brings a majority along with us which means a bridging role for fossil fuels. None of our marvelous political outfits has articulated one.

Order was restored by the Captain's peremptory rapping on his desk. He gracefully thanked the landowners who allow us access to their properties during the year: the Masons, Mustons, French and Lamberts. He welcomed our visitors, Nat Zearo, Gaz Price and Cole Myner. Ted's joke concerned the inconvenience of medical incidents on the course. The googly ball went to Steve Harrison who struck a rock with his first drive, called a 'provisional' and then struck the same rock. The monthly dummy spit was awarded to John Whitney who, against his wife's better advice, crossed the wrong bridge over Lamberts' creek and, afterwards, had the gall to declare "first time Lisa's been right". The Annual Dummy Spit Award was given to your correspondent for his pains-taking sifting of such monthly transgressions over the year. NTP and LD ball winners were Col Urquhart 2, Rob Gorham, Ken Gordon, Gerard Ryan, Chris Hansen, Neville Schroder and Tony Bond. The Junior comp was won by Emma Hansen. Winners of the 2025 Eclectic were Tim Barter 18 holes and Pete Harrison 9 holes. In the handicap division the winner of the nine hole comp was Steve Lambert 40/29

OCB from Lisa Whitney 55/29 and Ken Gordon 35/31. The winner of the 18 hole comp was Paul Griffin 87/70 from David Bailey 93/73 and Nev Schroder 85/75. As the kettle drums rolled and hautboys and sackbuts howled, the Captain announced the winners of the Open Division for 2025. The men's open nine hole champion is Gerard Ryan 33 strokes. The women's nine hole champion is Kath Hansen 48 strokes. The men's open 18 hole champion is Tim Barter 76 strokes. Congratulations to all who took part!

Next month we battle it out for the Christmas Cup. Join us at the Hall on Sunday, 7 December at 12.15pm to sign in for the 12.30pm start. Meanwhile, the Feds have written off the $4.1M blown on the new BuM site. And 'Up Yours' has won the Cup.
